“Lost and Foundish”

There they were, just laying in the street- two perfectly good tools! My first thought was, “I need to get those out of the road before someone hits them.” My second thought was, “Is today my birthday!?” It was like angels laid them before me, free for the taking. That was quickly followed by a conscious that reminded me that no, it was certainly not my birthday. There was a crew working on a house a block away. The tools could be theirs. It was evening and they were gone. I decided that I would approach the crew the next day.

The next morning, I drove to the worksite and approached three shirtless men. “I found two tools in the middle of the street yesterday. If you can name the tools I found, they’re yours!” All of them recognized the gesture as friendly and smiled, but one continued, “Our trailer, over there, has a hole in it and tools are always falling out of it! I couldn’t tell you what we’re missing!” I felt a look of confounded astonishment creep out of the depths of my soul, onto my face. Fortunately, I caught the words, “Sounds like something worth fixing!” before I said them.

On the tools, it appeared we were at a impasse.

Then another man spoke up. Jokingly he said, “I’ll tell you what, I would love it if you could tell me where my flip-flops are!” The look on my face must have betrayed me again. I was even more astonished than before. “Well... ok, one flip flop is about 1/2 a mile down the street, next to the church, in the oncoming lane. The other is halfway between there and here in the outgoing lane.” I had seen both laying in the street on the way into town.

“You’ve gotta be BLEEPING me!” he exclaimed. As surely as the sun shines, I was not BLEEPING him.

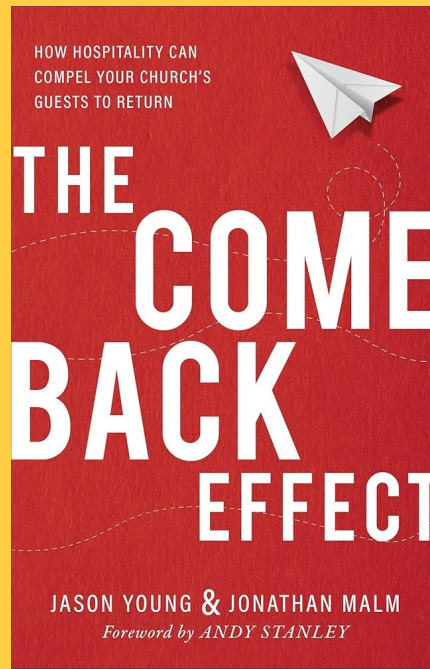

It’s easy to let things “slip through the cracks of life” until a day of reckoning comes. The tool you need is gone right at the end of a project. The flip flops that would have helped keep your feet from burning on the blacktop, are missing. What of faith?

Faith is incredibly difficult to simply turn on when times of trials come. Trust who, when, how? It’s most often developed much like discipline, putting yourself in places where one needs to trust in order to succeed moment by moment. It’s built when an answer is discovered in the scriptures, through prayer, and by learning to follow God’s Spirit. The fruits of faith, then speak for themselves. That way, when the heat comes, and the job needs to get done, you’ll have all that you need.

Book Study

“Written by a church consultant and a hospitality expert, The Come Back Effect shows church, ministry, and even business leaders the secret to helping a first-time guest return again and again. Through an engaging, story-driven approach, they explain how service and hospitality are two different things, show how Jesus practiced hospitality, and invite leaders to develop and implement changes that lead to repeat visits and, eventually, to sustained growth.”

Pastor Travis is forming a team of people to cover the book, “The Come Back Effect.”

This book is designed to help churches be more welcoming to visitors, who are most likely scared out of their wits to simply visit on a Sunday morning! This is an easy book to read, but highly informative. Once the team has a chance to gather, we will see what grows out of it!

The church will purchase the books for anyone who wants to participate, or you may purchase your own if you would like.

If you have questions, or would like to be a part of this group, please reach out to Tammy Jahns, the church secretary, at lindseytrinity@amplex.net or call at (419) 665-2262. We will contact you with meeting dates beginning in September.

Thank you to everyone who supported our mission this year through donations and especially through prayers. We were blessed to serve two families in need. The mission of ASP is to help make homes warmer, safer and drier. A window was replaced in one home to help keep the family warm and dry. Some electrical boxes were replaced at the other home eliminating a safety hazard for the kids. The carpet at both homes was removed and replaced with vinyl flooring to create a healthier environment. Our youth worked amazingly hard, each earning every bite of ice cream daily! Bonus Travel Tip: Fayette County is beautiful! It's many state parks make it a lovely vacation destination.
